Farmers who left their Farms.

"I have been personally acquainted with eight farmers who at different times quit their farms and engaged in other business, with the expectation of obtaining easier and more profitable work, but all of them did so to the detriment of their pecuniary interests, and three or four of them, at least, to the injury of their health and the shortening of their lives. The following sketches are substantially true in every particular:— A was a mason by trade until he had saved money enough to buy a farm in the woods, which he cleared and lived on in comfortable circumstances until his children had grown up and entered business for themselves. When past sixty years of age, although a large, stalwart man, still hale and hearty and able to perform farm labor, he decided to leave the farm and have more ease in his declining years. He traded his farm for a house and lot situated in a village in the State of New York, and received about $2,000 'to boot.' He moved to the village and began keeping a grocery store.

Without any experience in the mercantile business, without the art of obtaining and retaining customers and with a strong competition from men who had been educated for their business, it is not surprising that he fell behind every year. He was temperate in his habits and economical in his expenditures, but in less than ten years he had lost every cent he was worth, was sold out by the Sheriff and returned to the neighborhood he had left. He said to me when I called to see him at his son-in-law's: 'I suppose you know we lost all our property, and now my wife and I are living on our children.' I said that their children would be glad of the privilege of repaying the debt they owed their parents for rearing them from childhood and bringing them up in comfort and respectability. He had lost his hopefulness and cheerfulness. Like most old people supported by their children, he fancied he was a burden, and lived only a short time after his return.

B earned money enough in running a sawmill and lumbering to buy and pay for an improved farm. He was a successful farmer, and made a little clear profit every year, which is about all a farmer can expect; but he had to go about four miles to attend church to which he belonged, and, beginning to feel the stiffness of age in his limbs, he determined to try some business easier than farming and get nearer a meeting house. He sold his farm for $6,000 in cash, moved to the city of Scranton and engaged in the grocery business, for which he had no previous training. He was more fortunate than A, for after having been in business about twelve years he sold out and returned to the neighborhood he had left, having lost his time and half his capital. He moved on a rented farm, but in the excitement and fatigue of moving he took a heavy cold and in a few days died of pneumonia.

C, the son of a farmer, had begun farming without assistance from home, had worked like a slave until he was the owner of a valuable farm, with a fine new house and barn and free from debt. When nearly seventy years old, and desirous of taking a little more comfort in the evening of his life, he sold his farm for $10,000 and moved into the village. Every dollar he received for his farm was in the bonds of an anthracite coal company doing business in the coal regions of Pennsylvania, the bonds at the time of the sale were quoted in New York at a premium, and he supposed he was making a good investment, but before a year was past the company failed, and the bonds were as worthless as the brown paper. The loss of everything in his old age, after having labored so hard all his life, preyed on his mind that he sickened and died. His wife went to live with her son-in-law and survived her husband several years.

D, a careful, saving, industrious farmer, had begun the world poor, but had become very comfortably situated, when he desired to make money faster with less labor at some other business. He first took a contract for carrying the mail on a stage route, and usually in pleasant weather carried it himself. At the end of four years he left his son in charge of the farm, and with what money he had saved, moved to a neighboring town and went into the grocery business. It would seem that every farmer thinks he is running a grocery store. He may have doubts whether he could handle silks, laces and ribbons, but he has no doubt whatever that he is as competent to weigh out tea, coffee and sugar as anybody in the world. In about three years D came back to the farm, thin in flesh, pale and careworn. He had lost his spare cash and was fortunate that he had not lost the farm also. He only lived a year after his return. Whether he would have lived longer had he not gone to town, of course, we do not know, but he would certainly have experienced less anxieties of mind and would have left a larger estate.

E, was a farmer's only son, who succeeded to his father's farm and improved it by industry and good management. He took great interest in politics, and succeeded in being elected to one of the best county offices. This made it necessary for him to rent his farm and move to the county seat. Party usage did not allow his re-election, and after his term had expired, having become accustomed to conveniences, socialities and amusements of town life, he was unwilling to leave them. He sold the farm, bought a timber lot with a steam saw mill and went at lumbering. He retained his residence in town, and drove out every day to the mill to look after his business. He did not drink, gamble or attend horse races, but hard times came on, and lumber, which is one of the first things to feel its effects, took a sudden and disastrous fall. He had notes in the bank which he could not meet at maturity, and all his struggles to avoid bankruptcy were of unavailing.

His election to office was a misfortune and the cause of all his woes. Nothing could be saved from the emoluments of the office. Only an officeholder knows the penalties of holding a lucrative office. Friends came to borrow money, and the incumbent, if he expects to remain in politics, fears to refuse. Subscription papers for Sunday school libraries, church building and all kinds of benevolent institutions are presented to him by the score, and he is expected to contribute liberally to them all.

A Chicago bachelor has offered a prize of $25 for the best love letter written by an old maid. As there are few old maids in Mt. Sterling we suppose the offer is of little interest in this city.

The transcript of the record of the appealed case of Jim Howard has been sent to the Court of Appeals, and it is expected that an opinion will be handed down very soon.

A Pagan and a Gentleman.

St. Louis has just finished bowing and scraping before a youth who has royal blood in his veins and is going to be a monarch some day.

The Crown Prince of Siam is a pagan. His country is not civilized, and it wouldn't be fair to expect much from him in the way of modern manners. But he doesn't get drunk. He has displayed no fondness for chorus girls or champagne; he has expressed no desire to do the tango and make a show of himself.

YOU SEE HE IS A GENTLEMAN.

That is something that wots not the color of a man's hide or his place on the map of the world. Even education doesn't entirely subvert instinct, and so we have people with white skins coming from highly civilized lands making beasts of themselves, while the man from China and the Crown Prince of Siam and the other representatives of nations that are a thousand years behind the procession are setting the pace for good manners for the blue bloods of the world.

These pagans never forget their dignity or position. Scandal does not creep in their legations at Washington. They are calm, quiet and courteous wherever they are found. Compare them with Boris, the dual drunkard of Russia, a French Count or two and some of the English nobility, who have disgraced America by their presence in time past, and one would almost cry out: "Let us be pagans for the sake of decency."

When the Crown Prince goes home he will leave behind pleasant memories and carry with him a hearty invitation to come again.

When some of the more enlightened visitors have departed, America has notified her bad debt collectors to follow them, while society which can stomach almost anything that looks human and wears a title, fumigates the house.

Ate Greenbacks.

O'Krynn & Co., a leading clothing firm of Danville, Ky., had on exhibition in a front show window in their store a real live coon. The animal was confined in an ordinary wire cage. He became tired of imprisonment and freed himself. In the window at various distances apart were fifty one-dollar bills, which were offered to the person guessing nearest the coon's weight. When found, the coon was devouring the greenbacks with great avidity. He ate thirty dollars.

Bulk of sales at $4 or less. Heifers at $3 to $4; cows, 2 to 3c; bulls, 2c. ### HORSES AND MULES.

Not a great many mules on the market and the prices asked were from $5 to $10 per head, higher than last Court. No large, heavy mules for sale. 154-hand mules sold at $130 to $135; 15 hand mules at $100 to $120; small mules at from $75 to $90.

Horses about as usual; the mean day had some influence in trading and very few sales made.

Local Inventor.

Some one said "necessity is the mother of invention," and this has been proven to be true in this office by Mr. Charles Ratliff, who improvised a water gauge for telling how much water there is in a barrel used in running our engine. The gauge works to perfection and Mr. Ratliff will have it patented. Already his friends who have seen this marvel see in Charlie a millionaire inventor in the not far distant future. We shall next attempt a description of this little wonder, suffice it to say that after climbing up and looking in the barrel you can readily tell how much water is in it.

A New Enterprise.

W. W. Gay & Co., a firm composed of Jno. T. Woodford, W. W. Gay and Thornton and Catesby Woodford have bought the shop of the McBrayer Distillery and will feed between four and five hundred cattle. This is a strong firm, one that has interests in common with the people of Mt. Sterling and along the valley of Hinkston Creek and we may be sure that the offensive smell from the distillery will from this time on be a thing of the past.

Related Minutes of Teachers' Association.

Saturday Nov. 1st. Gilead Teachers' Association day, was one of the most beautiful a Kentucky autumn holds in store. The trees with their frontage of purple and scarlet, and gold; the fields of green and brown; everything indeed "pleasant to the eyes" was to be seen—yes, verily, and everything "good for food" to be had, in that hospitable neighborhood of Gilead. Ah, Luckless Absentees; you may fall to regret not hearing those things "to be desired to make or e wise" in the shape of our papers and talks, but that dinner—chat, chicken; those dressed eggs; that salmon salad; those cakes; that cream; prepared by such famous mistresses of the culinary art as Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Hiele, Mrs. Hainline, Mr. Hainline—you will probably sorrow over not having tasted all your days.

The school room at Locust Grove is a model in itself with its pictures of famous men and places; The schoolroom music by Miss Lella Ande's pupils added much in making the day interesting. Rev. Carnehan's appropriate opening and closing scripture reading and prayers added also to the profit and earnestness of the occasion.

Among papers and talks, may be mentioned "His Majesty The American Boy" by Miss Veal, and Phases of Boy Nature" by Miss A. Oliver. "Boys may be prostrate but are always toe-sure," the latter declared. She rifled a boy's pockets—space forbids us giving the contents. She peered into a boy's mind and showed us its complex workings. Boys emphasized the importance of training this mind and preparing it for future usefulness.

The most scholarly paper given, was Miss Dora Bell Scott's on "School Ethics." It should be printed in full. There was not a line of it that was not helpful.

Miss Kate Corbett's talk on Usefulness of Biography was generally appreciated. She spoke of the lesson of perseverance to be taught by Columbus; of power of prayer as illustrated in Washington's life, of punishment following betrayal exemplified in Benedict Arnold, and of the courage and patriotism inspired by Putnam.

Miss Mary Oliver's recitations we all enjoyed, and Miss Thoop's recital of "The Trials of a District Schoolteacher" elicited much applause. On finding her father was the author, we begged it for publication, but have not, as yet, received it.

"We have saved the best wine until now," was the introduction given as Prof. Thos. V. Thoop rose to tell us "The Effect of Coast Line on Civilization." None who heard doubted the fitness of the figure.

There was all the wine's bubble and sparkle and foam as, in rhyme, he told of his recent experience with poison-oak and apologized for consequent personal appearance. There was the richness, smoothness, depth, of the rarest vintage in the body of his address.

This completed the program, and, by a few earnest, well-chosen words of the President, we were dismissed.

An Act to Regulate the Importation into this State of Dependent Children from other States

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

1. No person, corporation, association or institution shall bring or send, or cause to be sent, into the State of Kentucky, from any other state any dependent child, for the purpose of placing such child in any family home within the boundaries of the State of Kentucky, either with or without indenture or for adoption, or shall procure same to be done, unless the said person, corporation, association or institution shall have furnished the county judge of the county in which any such child is to be placed or left, with a bond acceptable to the said county judge, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned as follows:

They will not send or bring, or cause to be brought or sent into this State or any county thereof, any child that is incorrigible, or one that is of unsound mind or body, or having any contagious or incurable disease; that they will at once, upon the placement of such child, report to the State Superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home Society its name and age, and the name and residence of the person, with whom it is placed; that if any such child shall, before it reaches the age of twenty-one years, become a public charge, they will, within thirty days after written notice shall have been given them of such fact by the Superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, remove such child from the State; and if any such dependent child shall be convicted of crime or misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned within five years from the time of its arrival in the State, such person, corporation, association or institution shall remove such child from the State immediately upon its being released from said imprisonment, and upon failure of thirty days' notice or demand to remove, as aforesaid, any such child who shall have either become a public charge as aforesaid, or who shall have been convicted as aforesaid, in either event such person, corporation, association or institution shall at once forfeit the sum of one thousand dollars as a penalty therefor, to be recovered upon said bond by a suit in the name of the county in which said bond shall have been filed; that they will place, or cause to be placed, each of said dependent children under written contract, which will serve any such child a proper

PROFIT

The matter of feed is of tremendous importance to the farmer. Wrong feeding is loss. Right feeding is profit.

The up-to-date farmer knows what to feed his cows to get the most milk, his pigs to get the most pork, his hens to get the most eggs. Science.

But how about the children? Are they fed according to science, a bone food if bones are soft and undeveloped, a flesh and muscle food if they are thin and weak and a blood food if there is anemia?

Scott's Emulsion is a mixed food; the Cod Liver Oil in it makes flesh, blood and muscle, the Lime and Soda make bone and brain. It is the standard scientific food for delicate children.

Send for free sample.
Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

home, and will make the person so receiving such child responsible for its proper care, education, and training; that they will properly supervise the care and training of such child, and that each of such children shall be visited at least once a year by a responsible agent of the person, corporation, association or institution so placing, or causing to be placed, such child as herein provided; that they will make the Superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home Society such reports of their work as he may from time to time require."

2. The State Board of the Kentucky Children's Home Society shall have general supervision and management of all matters contained in this act, and make such other further rules and regulations, not inconsistent herewith, as it may deem necessary for the proper placing out, indenture, adoption, removal and supervision of such children, and for the rejection of incorrigible or unsound children, and for the removal of children convicted of crime or misdemeanor, or who may become public charges.

3. Any person, corporation, association, or institution, or any officer or agent thereof, who shall receive, to be placed in a home, or shall place in a home, any child in violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall be imprisoned in the county jail not less than ten nor more than sixty days, or fined not less than twenty dollars or more than two hundred dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court.

4. The provisions of this act shall not apply to a relative going to any other State and bringing a child into this State for the purpose of giving it a home in its own family.

Killing in Fleming.
In Fleming county Tuesday night, while several boys were building a fence across a road to play a trick on some companions returning from church, Walter Peck, aged fifteen years, was shot and killed. Alvin Burgess is in jail at Flemingsburg, and has confessed to the shooting, but claims it was accidental.

Another gusher is reported from the Knox county oil field.

HANGED. Took Prisoner From the Sheriff and Banged Him in the Court-House Yard.

At Lewisburg, Tenn., the horribly mutilated body of Robert And was found in the field near his home at an early hour Thursday. A chair heard some one in a wagon who had been stealing corn and started in pursuit with a small rifle, the stock and barrel of which were found near his dead body. A knife covered with blood was also found and identified as the property of John Davis, colored. The sheriff organized a posse and went to the house of Davis, where the bloody clothes he wore were located, but Davis had fled.

Search was unrelenting and the negro was caught about half a mile from town, but not until he had been twice wounded. He was brought back and the sheriff and Rev. John Royal Harris made an appeal to the people to allow the law to take its course, but the mob was deaf to all entreaties and hanged the negro in the courthouse yard.

There were about 500 unmasked men in the crowd.

Christmas money.

Gov. Beckham hopes to put out by Christmas all the money due the soldiers of the First, Second and Third Kentucky regiments for services before they were mustered into the army during the Spanish-American War. The work of signing the checks is to begin at once, and paymasters will be sent out to settle with the soldiers.

Bad Taste in the Mouth

When you get up in the morning with a coated tongue and a bad taste in the mouth, you may or may not be seriously ill, but if there is any disorder, your system is just right to catch it.

We know what you think—first you are half persuaded to try Vinol, and then you say to yourself, "That's the same story all the medicines tell; I've heard it before."

But Vinol is not like other medicines. If it were, we shouldn't be talking about it in any special way.

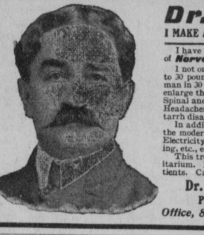

If you will regulate your bowels with Vinol and take Vinol to improve your digestion and assimilation of food, these troubles, with the headache, "liver complaint," neuralgia, rheumatic pains, and nerve troubles will disappear as by magic.

We pay back the money if it doesn't help you.

THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR CONSTIPATION

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could realize that he is allowing poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation inviting all kind of contagion, Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailments disappear when constipated bowels are relieved. The Ford's Black-Draught thoroughly cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics. I think it would never be able to take without it on account of being loaded with constipation. Your medicine is all that I have used.

Count Boni cuts the Purse Strains.

The last news from Paris must make the Goulds have chills. Count Boni, who hoodooed Jay Gould's family, the instant he became Anna Gould's husband, is on another financial "toot." He is throwing it at the birds again, and it may not be long before "Brother" George will be compelled to fly to the rescue.

For a time the Count was quiet. He almost fought a duel or two, got angry because some of his low-bred creditors had the impudence to ask for their money—but he didn't plunge. The fact that he owed about 20,000,000 francs seemed to sober him. It was arranged that the debts should be paid on the installment plan, with interest; rough spots were smoothed over, and then—enter King Charles of Portugal, who drove right up to the Castellane home and put his royal feet under the dining room table that was purchased with Gould money.

Those of us who were a bit demented when Prince Henry came to town will appreciate, in a slight degree, how Count Boni felt. True, he had just been expelled from the French Chambers of Deputies for the alleged buying of his election, but the King's coming made him forget his troubles, and he began to spend money. He cut the purse strings and francs went flying. They had music, flowers, wines, a theatrical performance, with no outsiders admitted, a hunting trip, where every pheasant that fell meant a check on the bank; dinners, decorations fireworks and other things too numerous to mention. The expense of King Charles' little visit is estimated, roughly, at $25,000, and he was at the Count's chateau just one day.

For the sake of his feelings, one could almost be glad that Jay Gould passed away before the Frenchman appeared on the scene.

Railroad Back Taxes.

Under the assessments of Kentucky railroads for franchise taxation by the counties, the amount certified to Jefferson county and its taxing districts is $3,381,064.29. This covers seven years, from 1896 to 1902, and local taxes will be collected on it. Of this amount $471,228.10 will be certified to the city of Louisville.

Clocks have been placed in all the electric tramway cars at Dresden.

Recommends it to Trainmen.

Evening classes for policemen are being formed at Aberdeen, Scotland.

Seymour Webb, Mouta, N. Y., writes: "I had been troubled with my kidneys for twenty-five years and had tried several physicians but received no relief until I bought a bottle of Foley's Kidney Cure. Fifty-eight English children attend the public schools in Berlin.

Geo. A. Points, Upper Sandusky, O., writes: "I have been using Foley's Honey and Tar for hoarseness and find it the best remedy I ever tried. It stopped the cough immediately and relieved all soreness." Take none but Foley's.

Mr. Weed T. Smith, of Stanford, has in his possession the first dime he ever earned. When a lad of twelve years, he worked one whole day for 10 cents. Mr. Smith is now fifty years old and still has his dime, and says he would very much dislike to give it up.

To Cure a Cough

Stop coughing, as it irritates the lungs, and gives them no chance to heal. Foley's Honey and Tar cures without causing a strain in throwing off the phlegm like common cough expectorants.

Gov. Beckham's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Gov. Beckham has issued the following Thanksgiving day proclamation:

"Commonwealth of Kentucky, Executive Department.—The noblest and most beautiful custom of the American people is in their celebration of Thanksgiving day. It is then, above all other times, that they pause and bow their heads in reverent gratitude to the Giver of gifts, the Author of all good. It is then that they cease their struggles in the onward progress of individual and national advancement, and contemplate the wonderful growth of our country, its bountiful resources, its marvelous achievements, and realize that all these blessings have come, not by the hand of man alone, but by the beneficence and providence of an all-wise and merciful God. It is the day when we pay a tribute of reverence and love to Him from whom these bounties have come.

"The genius of the American artificer, coupled it seems with Divine favor, has shown the world the most splendid civilization and the happiest nation in the history of man. The spirit that prompted the early pilgrims to lift up their prayers to heaven for aid when they landed on our shores and saw before them a vast wilderness inhabited only by savages and wild beasts is the same spirit that today prompts us upon bended knees to give thanks unto Him when we see that wilderness transformed, as by a magician's wand, into a land of peace and plenty, and the haunts of savages and beasts changed into the homes of a happy and contented people. We have prospered greatly, and we should be duly thankful. The President of the United States has appointed Thursday, November 27, 1902, and I therefore designate that day for the Commonwealth of Kentucky as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. Let it be properly observed; let all citizens of the Commonwealth refrain from their usual business pursuits and take part in the services of the occasion. Let the poor be not forgotten, and let those who have prospered remember those that have not, for the sincerest expression of gratitude is not in fulsome words of the mouth, but in deeds of charity and kindness to those who need help.

"In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort this 12th day of November, 1902, and in the one hundred and eleventh year of the Commonwealth.

FACTS and OBSERVATIONS

MENEFEE AND POWELL.

The writer attended Menefee Circuit Court from Monday, Nov. 10th until Wednesday afternoon. Court convenes in the afternoon. We heard one man say that the grand-jury did not question him about the latest local option law, concerning giving away whiskey, and another, (in substance) that if indictments are found against all who gave away whiskey during the election, nearly every one who had electioneered would be indicted. The first speaker had so used whiskey, and was a stranger to us. We wish to see the time when candidates will conduct their campaign without dishonoring themselves and corrupting their fellow-man by giving him whiskey. We to him who thus gives strong drink to his neighbor. We are pleased to state that we saw no men drunk. Probably many take it now and then and oftener. This is their privilege, but the habit is dangerous and an account will have to be given one day when the books are opened.

We spent Monday night with the family of J. W. Cravens. We were invited to preach for the people of McCausey on Tuesday evening; we accepted, and after the labors of the day in town were over we returned and preached in the school-house to about 40 or 50 people and at another time will speak for them. We made note of the verdicts of juries in several cases of gaming, selling to minors, shooting on highways, etc., but the paper has been misplaced, hence we cannot reproduce.

The trial of Wm. Stamper for shooting Bush began on Wednesday and resulted in his acquittal. His indictment for shooting Tip Day was filed away.

We were informed that leases on 6 or 7 thousand acres of land on Beaver Creek were held by Judge Caudill, Thos. Greenwade and another (Henry Combs, we believe). These may become very valuable to them also profitable to investors. At Rainswell on Wednesday we saw Dick McIlvain with his arm in bandages. In explanation he said a gentleman had driven to town a blind horse hitched to a sled, but had loosened the trace chains. The animal frightened and ran away. The first conflict was with a barbed wire fence, in which the horse was severely cut at the throat, and a hind leg cut in the effort to get out. The next lunge was into a large 3-seated back which was overturned; disfigured but still plucky the horse made a dash and ran into a 7 board plank fence and broke its way through and rolled into the enclosed lot. Regaining its feet it came to a stand-still. Mr. Mc was doctoring the wounds, when the horse kicked him and broke one bone of his arm. We do not know what he said. The train bell rang and we were off for Mt. Sterling, reaching home after dark.

TO STANTON.

We left our first train next morning for Powell Circuit Court, where we spent two days.

Commonwealth Attorney Crutch, had finished his duties by Wednesday and went home on Thursday. Judge Benton returns to his home at Winchester every afternoon on 4:30 train. The damage suit by Jas. Hall against the L. & E. Railroad for bad drainage of land at the large fill and bridge near town was decided in favor of the road.

In the $2,500 damage suit against the Swan-Day Lumber Co. by a young man who had cut the end of his thumb off with a rip saw, the Judge instructed the jury to find for the Company.

The Judge has made for himself an enviable reputation as an able, just and impartial judge.

John W. Spencer and wife, of Fleming county, were visiting his brother, C. F. Spencer, the lawyer. The Democratic primary to select a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk comes on December 6th. At present there are only five candidates: Morgan Lisle, W. T. Stringer, C. L. Smith, Henry Derickson and A. Norton. Mr. Norton is the present incumbent, having already served nearly eleven years. We heard of no dissatisfaction and presume his prospects for the nomination are good and that he is well qualified for the place.

Among the visiting attorneys we saw Beckner & Joutet, of Winchester, Congressman White, of Irvine, and A. T. Wood and W. A. DeHaven, of Mt. Sterling.

He who has eyes can not fail to see—things good and bad. Oh! the wreck and ruin wrought by the liquor traffic. Let us rejoice in the possibilities for doing and being good, let us do what we can to drive away the tears, heal the broken hearts, inspire men to nobler ideals, lead them to purer lives, show them the fountain of unfailing strength. For this we plead in private and public, as on Thursday evening at the Christian Church we told of God's message through Christ and His rewards and punishments.

DEVELOPMENT OF STATE THE KEYNOTE.

President A. Y. Ford Outlines the Plans of the Kentucky Association for an Exhibit at St. Louis.

That $100,000 for a Kentucky building and a full display of Kentucky's products and resources at the World's Fair at St. Louis in 1904 is as certain to be raised as the Exposition is to be held. Within a month since the organization of the Kentucky Exhibit Association was formed, the movement has gone forward with such an aggressive step that success is already assured. The body has been incorporated under the laws of Kentucky, and a board of directors, to serve until January, 1905, was elected. The officers, directors and committeemen are serving without pay.

President A. Y. Ford, of the Exhibit Association, has issued a statement.

"The Kentucky Exhibit Association," says Mr. Ford, "is down to work with every indication pointing to success. It is not only important that the State be represented at St. Louis, but that it should be represented in such a striking way as to attract pronounced attention."

"Kentucky is one of the richest States in the Union in mineral, timber and agricultural resources. It offers inducements unequalled elsewhere for the investment of capital. To make known to the world of business both the existence of these resources and opportunities and the existence of this friendly, progressive spirit is the animating purpose of the Kentucky Exhibit Association."

"To do this properly is to do it thoroughly. A full, comprehensive and convincing demonstration of the enormous extent, variety and value of Kentucky's mineral resources has never been made. The same is true as to its resources, its manufacturing facilities, its agricultural wealth."

"The building that will be erected at St. Louis is to be itself an exhibit, with the products of Kentucky's mines, forests and factories utilized in its construction, decoration and furnishing. It is, furthermore, to be an exhibit hall containing an attractive display of Kentucky's products, set forth in a striking way, to give the visitor at a glance an impression of the truth that Kentucky is a State of vast natural wealth, of great variety of resources, and of rapidly multiplying manufacturing interests."

"It is proposed to assemble on a scale never attempted before, displays of Kentucky minerals, agricultural products, timber and manufactured products of all kinds, to be placed among the classified exhibits in the main buildings of the Exposition. We shall also put the State's best foot foremost in the live stock exhibits. Few States can equal the mineral display that can be made with Kentucky coal, Kentucky asphalt, zinc, lead, fluor spar, clays, building stone, coke, onyx, besides timber of almost endless varieties, fruits, grains, hemp, tobacco and a long list of products."

Will Contest Closed.

The Marshall will contest at Cynthiana, which has caused widespread attention, closed Thursday with a verdict for Mrs. M. L. Marshall, the contestant. Counsel for the will made a motion for a new trial, which will be argued before Special Judge Hager in Cincinnati November 29.

About five years ago a Maine woman, taking a conscriptive husband to the mountains of Arizona, was shown an old abandoned claim by her Indian servant. She took it, with great difficulty secured $500 to work it and before the year was out sold it for $50,000 and a life interest.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures colds, prevents pneumonia

"I do not believe," writes Mrs. O. B. Lind, President of the "Harmony Woman's Club, Milwaukee, residing at 126 7th St., Milwaukee, Wis., "that any honest physician who would prescribe Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for female troubles and observe the results could help but acknowledge it to be one of the finest remedies on the market to-day. Have tried it myself several times during the past three years, and have found it very satisfactory for a worn-out system. A friend, who is a chemist, analyzed it and gave it unstinted praise as a highly concentrated herbal remedy, containing superior curative properties. Your medicine has a large number of friends among suffering women, and I have yet to hear one speak disparagingly of its merits."

Mrs. Lind's praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is very practical. She knows what it has done for her. She has had the medicine analyzed by a chemist, who is also a friend, and "who gives it unstinted praise as a highly concentrated herbal remedy containing superior curative properties." "Favorite Prescription" stands almost alone among medicines for weak and sick women, both as to its "superior curative properties" and its purely "herbal" or vegetable composition. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic, and may be used by the most delicate person.

The "superior curative properties" of "Favorite Prescription" are marked by its accomplishing cures such as no similar medicine for women has accomplished. It cures womanly diseases when all other means of cure have failed of giving more than a temporary relief.

It is gratifying also to know that there are "honest physicians" who do recognize "Favorite Prescription" as "one of the finest remedies on the market to-day."

A SKILLED PHYSICIAN'S PRAISE.

"I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription too highly as a tonic for tired, worn-out women who are afflicted with female weakness," writes Mrs. Ira W. Holmes of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. "It has helped me very much, and a skillful physician once said to me in answer to my question as to its efficacy, 'I know of cases where it has really worked wonders.'"

"That is a good testimony from a skillful physician. But the facts support the statement. It is a wonderful work to cure diseases pronounced incurable. It is a wonderful work when women, who had been told there was no help nor health for them, save in an operation, are perfectly cured without an operation by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is working wonders when women, who, for years have never known a well day, are cured by "Favorite Prescription" and never after know an ill day. It is a wonder when the mother, who has spent agonizing days in the doctor's hands, uses "Favorite Prescription" and finds her time so well made practically painless. These are the wonders that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have worked and are working for weak and sick women."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. As a tonic and nerve for weak, worn-out women it is unsurpassed. It cures backache, headache, nervousness and sleeplessness. It encourages the appetite, and gives sound, physical health and strength.

Taken as a preparative for maternity, "Favorite Prescription" promotes health of body and tranquility of mind. It prevents or cures nausea, soothes and strengthens the nerves, and gives great muscular strength and elasticity, making the baby's advent practically painless. Because of its superior tonic properties it supercedes all stimulants for the use of the convalescing and nursing mother. It increases the flow of the nutritive secretions, and so enables the mother to nurse and nourish her child.

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAID.

"I have been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for some time, and I can cheerfully recommend it," writes Mrs. Victor J. Hadin, of Leonardville, Riley Co., Kans. "I began taking it just two months before I was confined and was greatly benefited by its use. The doctor who attended me said I did about as well as any one he had seen (as I was sick only about three hours), and also that your 'Favorite Prescription' was 'one patent medicine' which he did have faith in."

"We now have a darling baby boy, strong and healthy, who weighed nine pounds when born (July 28th). During this month he has gained three and one-half pounds. Have never given him one dose of medicine. I shall cheerfully recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to any one in need of it. I thank you for the benefit I received from your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a woman's medicine, and may be relied upon in every womanly need. From the first change of life, when the girl becomes a woman, until the last change of life, in all womanly derangements and diseases which are curable by medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (to quote from another grateful letter) is "the faithful friend of women."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All letters are held as strictly private, and the written confidences of women are guarded by the same strict professional privacy observed by Dr. Pierce and his staff in personal consultations with weak and sick women at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Game Laws.

The quail season in Kentucky opens on Saturday. From reports received from all parts of the State this will be contrary to expectations a good year for quail. Last season was a disappointment despite the mild winter preceding. It was feared that owing to the heavy sleet which caused thousands of quail to starve to death last year, the hunting would be poor this year. However hunters who have been out for rabbits say that the quail are plentiful and in large quantities. There has been no change in the late quail law. This season opens on Nov. 15 and closes Jan. 1. An attempt was made to pass a law preventing the sale of quail in Kentucky, but it failed to pass the Senate.
